According to Dominique, her husband's parents bought the California baskets while they were living in Berkeley/San Francisco from 1950-1955. Her husband's parents drove across the United States, possibly collecting an additional 12 non-California baskets along the way, to board a ship in New York back to Denmark. Her husband inherited these baskets from his parents. These baskets were shipped from Belgium to the Fowler Museum in 2016 upon the wishes of her late husband, Soren Valentini-Olsen.

X65.12939	Fowler Museum at UCLA	Spear Head	SPEAR HEAD CHIPPED OBSIDIAN	California	Unknown	1965	Wellcome Trust		The Wellcome Trust includes an imperial collection of manuscripts, medical and non-medical tools, paintings, architecture, weapons, belongings, ancestors, and many other categories of material culture from all over the world. This collection was amassed by Sir Henry Wellcome, a wealthy pharmaceutical entrepreneur, who was born in the US, but spent most of his life in London. Upon his death in 1936, the Wellcome Trust was formed to manage the collection. The trust gifted much of its holdings away in a series of dispersals to other institutions. The Fowler Museum received its gift from the Wellcome Trust in 1965-67 as part of one of the later dispersals. Among the materials dispersed, the objects marked California include 1 spear head (X65.12939), 1 snuff tube (X65.13348A, X65.13348B, X65.13348C, X65.13348D), and 1 bone tool (X67.485).
